

Daylight Inspires Better Performance

Studies done have confirmed that staff who have access to natural daylight for most of their workday are more creative, productive and more inspired. They also have more loyalty towards their employer as they feel more “cared for”.

A very good reason to consider sharing daylight with as many staff as possible.